HEART OF LONDON ROCKED BY SEVERE GAS BLASTS

Mindanao Hit As Earthquake Levels Towns

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 21.—(U.P.)—A violent earthquake rocked the island of Mindanao, of the Philippine group Wednesday night but casualties were surprisingly low, according to advices from officials received here today.

Mindanao is situated at the southern end of the islands and is one of the largest of the group. One person was killed and several injured the reports said. Residents of many towns were startled, however, as buildings collapsed and the ground cracked. Most of the damage which was estimated at more than $100,000, was reported by the towns of Cotabaco, Zamboanga and Davao. A straight line from east to west would run through the three towns and would also pierce Maturing volcano, which is near the center of the island and approximately equidistant from Cotabaco and Davao.

Rescuers Nearing Boat Of Lost Pair

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—A rescue party tonight was reported nearing the spot where the boat of Glenn Hyde and his wife, of Hansen, Idaho, is stranded in the grand canyon of the Colorado river.

Two army aviators flying over the canyon today sighted three men in the depths of the river going 15 miles above the entrance to Diamond canyon, where the boat stranded.

The aviators dropped a message to the men instructing them to proceed down the river to Diamond canyon and find out if there was any trace of Hyde and his wife there.

Word of the progress of the search was received in a telegram to Maj. Gen. John L. Hines, commanding general of the ninth corps area, from March Field, Riverside, the base from which the aviators are working.

The two aviators, Lieutenants

Plummer and Adams, after dropping the note to the rescue party, flew down the canyon past the stranded boat and dropped a second message.

It was to inform the missing pair, if they are still alive and near the boat, that rescue was almost at hand.

Whether Hyde and his wife perished in the treacherous rapids of the river or are wandering along the canyon seeking to climb its precipitous cliffs is not known.

They are many days overdue at Needles, Ariz., the destination of the river trip on which they started from El Tovar hotel, 122 miles above the point where the aviators sighted the boat, stranded in a shallow stretch of the stream.

Army officers here are studying large scale maps of the Grand Canyon area and think it possible Hyde and his wife abandoned the boat and were attempting to make their way up Diamond creek.

Bay Ferry Merger Before Rail Board

Approval by the state railroad commission of the merger of San Francisco bay auto ferries will be sought within 90 days, according to A. C. Stewart, president of the Golden Gate Auto ferry system.

"Traffic engineers of the Golden Gate, Southern Pacific and Northwestern Pacific companies are studying the routing problems so that a schedule of boat operation may be presented to the commission."

Each company will continue to operate its lines until approval of the merger is given by the commission. Stewart declared yesterday that the winter demands on the service is not so great as to make it particularly desirable to place the merger plan in operation before spring.

Bankers are studying over the financial arrangements of the merger. In general these arrangements are to provide for an exchange of stock on a basis of equity, which is believed will satisfy all stockholders in the Golden Gate concern.

Judge Threatened In Kidnaping Trial

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—Direct threats and innuendoes leading to death, enlivened proceedings today in the trial of three Italians charged with conspiracy in the kidnaping of little Billy Rauter for whom a ransom of $50,000 was demanded.

Before the state rested its case, it was disclosed that veiled threats had been sent through the mail to Judge Robert E. Gestel, presiding at the trial, and Mike De Vito, one of the principal state witnesses.

The judge revealed he had received a note, mailed in the stockyards district, apparently from the same Mafia group that had intimidated prosecution witnesses and possibly from those responsible for the murder of Ole Scully and the wounding of five other persons in a vicious attack with guns and bats earlier in the week.

S. F. Police Open War On Gangland

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21.—San Francisco today declared war on the gunman, his moll and the imported racketeers.

Aroused over a double murder in northern California that has definitely added to the list of San Francisco-hatched gang killings, Acting Chief of Police William Quinn and Lieut. Charles Dulles, head of the department homicide squad, handed down their ultimatum today.

Police also declared that they were satisfied as to the identity of the man who shot Mario Phillip, Sacramento street cafe owner last week. They said they hoped soon to apprehend him.

Expressing himself as "sick and tired" of the gang murders, Dulles declared that the gangs must be broken. Every gunman will be arrested and with the aid of the Federal authorities will be deported if they have no rights in this country.

Slayer Acquitted

DELIBERATING for five hours a jury in Queens county, N. Y., court found Mrs. Frances Kirkwood, (left) not guilty of charges that she had slain her husband, Dr. Glenn Kirkwood. Overcome by the verdict she was assisted from the courtroom by matrons.

BAY TEACHERS OPPOSE COUNTY UNIT PLAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—Opposition to the proposed county unit plan of school administration was voiced by 7000 teachers of the ten bay counties in convention here today. Restoration of the teachers tenure law in force prior to 1927 was also urged in a resolution adopted by the association.

The present teacher tenure law makes dismissal of a teacher who has had two or three years experience in a school impossible except by trial of for cause. If the 1927 law is returned it would exempt tenure provision from applying to schools of less than eight teachers.

The association charged that under the new tenure law, schools boards in the rural districts are afraid of being forced to keep a teacher for an indefinite period of years. As a result they will not employ a teacher for more than one year.

Resolutions adopted by the association were as follows: Support pledged to the education bill providing for the establishment of a department of education with a secretary in the president's cabinet.

Preservation of the professional rights of teachers to a life diploma after a period of successful experience.

Presentation of high standard certificates for teaching.

Upgrading of elementary teachers in service according to a plan whereby any graduate of a California two-year normal school course of three year teachers college course with three years' successful experience shall receive on the basis of such teaching credits toward an A. B. degree in addition to each unit of work.

Liberalizing of the course of study for rural and town elementary schools.

Lessening of the increase of clerical and non-teaching work of teachers.

In a talk today Dr. Rufus Von Kleinsmid, president of the University of Southern California, reviewed stupendous changes growing out of modern inventions. This was the closing session of the meeting.

CONDITION OF KING GEORGE BRINGS HOPE TO NATION

LONDON, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—King George's condition remained favorable tonight and his progress is now established on a firm basis, an official statement signed by five physicians and issued at Buckingham palace said.

For the first time in four weeks no official bulletin was issued at the palace tonight, but an official announcement said the king's condition was "satisfactory." It was explained that no bulletin was issued because of the lengthy statement during the late afternoon.

As a result of the favorable progress during the last five days and the attitude of the court physicians as expressed in the announcement, the British empire accepted the belief that King George at last had "turned the corner" in his critical illness and a continuance of his progress might be expected.

Nation Relieved

The day's developments brought a lessening of tension which had held the nation for 29 days, since the king was forced to bed by a "common cold" which developed into pleurisy with complications.

"A consultation has taken place," today's statement said, "in order to make a comprehensive study of his majesty's present progress and to discuss the course which treatment in the immediate future had best proceed."

"The condition of the right side of the chest has improved and there is evidence of more normal respiratory functions. Healing of the emphysema with its severe local infection, though satisfactory, must of necessity be a lengthy process."

Gathers Strength

"The heart is slowly gathering power and while exhaustion remains profound, there is a slight access in general strength noticeable. The future course of the illness must, from its nature, be slow and not without difficulties, but we are happy to state that the king's progress now is established on a firmer basis."

The general atmosphere of optimism which was predominant at the palace and throughout the capital Wednesday, continued today as the tension which has gripped England for the last month began to subside.

YULE TRUCE SIGNED IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—Under a Christmas truce the senate has laid aside the anti-war treaty and the 15 cruiser bill until after the holidays.

When the Senate reconvenes Jan. 3, a vote will be taken, to determine which measure shall be acted upon first. A majority vote will decide this issue.

This truce was proposed in the form of a unanimous consent agreement today by Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, after feeling between the chief proponents of the two measures became so bitter that it threatened to tie up Senate business completely until the Christmas adjournment Saturday.

Navy Drive Blocked

Bankers of the navy bill renewed their attempt to get the right of way for it after having been blocked last night by the objections of Senator Norris, Nebraska Republican and King, Utah Democrat.

Today they were on the point of obtaining a favorable vote when by quick parliamentary maneuvering in which Senator Norris joined for a time by making a motion which he actually voted against, the navy drive was blocked and a truce declared.

What will happen when the fight is resumed Jan. 3, is subject to possible peace conferences during the Christmas holidays.

Quick Show Down

Chairman Borah announced he would move to take up the peace treaty at that time. The motion will be put under circumstances which will make it non-debatable thus forcing a quick, sharp showdown on whether the peace treaty or the 15 cruisers will be first to greet the New Year.

This action was grudgingly accepted.

17 Injured As Gas Explosion Wrecks Stores

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(U.P.)—Renewed explosions in the Holborn district early today endangered foundations of buildings in the west end where a series of blasts caused great damage Thursday.

At 2:30 a. m. blasts shook structures at High and Denmark streets. Flames were spouting from great cracks in the pavement and sidewalks in the area where firemen had ordered families to evacuate.

All of the gas mains broken by the blast Thursday had been sealed but the air was still foul and officials said there was a great volume of gas beneath the streets.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—A half mile long triangular area in the heart of London presented the appearance of a shelled town in war time tonight as the result of a series of the most disastrous gas main explosions in the history of the capital.

Two severe explosions and a series of minor blasts rocked the west end retail district this morning and this afternoon, injuring 17 persons and causing damage estimated at $750,000.

Yellow flames ten feet high were still rising volcano like from jagged holes on one street, after darkness fell, throwing the deserted houses and crumpled and crumpled sidewalks into weird relief. The light flickered over groups of workmen armed with batteries and pneumatic drills, who invaded the gas filled district to sink holes and check the flow of gas.

In another section, long lines of intensely hot blue flames hissed through thin cracks in the street while the ground in the neighborhood trembled slightly to the rumble of subterranean fires. The public was barred from the area. The worst damage was near the Princess theater, where the American dancing stars, Fred and Adele Astaire, are appearing in "Funny Face." There was no show there tonight.

Mystery Girl Wins Dash With Airplane

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—A New York heiress who led a merry chase across the continent drew newspapermen into the pursuit here today as they followed her speeding taxicab through the bay region and when they finally cornered her they did not learn the reason for the game of hide and seek.

The girl, Ruth McConnell, 20, told of numerous reasons why she might have left home. All of them seemed as vague as the distance that had separated the girl and her chief pursuer in the race of airplane against train across the nation.

The pursuer, Dr. D. O. Moecker of Rochester, N. Y., said to be a friend of the girl's parents, chartered a special plane in Omaha, Nebraska but was only a short (Continued on Page 2)

Forger Tells Duping Aimee In Sight Cure

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20.—Confession that he had duped Aimee Semple McPherson and her Angelus Temple followers for five years by "posing as blind," and later by giving the evangelist and her gospel credit for a "divine miracle" that restored her sight, was made in court here today by "Rev." Arthur S. Arnold, Jr., convicted forger and confessed fakir.

Arnold made his startling confession in the court of Superior Judge W. J. Woods today just after he was sentenced to serve five years in San Quentin prison on a charge of cashing worthless checks throughout the Pacific coast states.

Arnold had described himself as an "apostle" of the Angelus Temple and pastor of the Pentecostal church of Huntington Park. He told the court how he planned the "miracle" and how Mrs. McPherson and the members of her church had joined in rejoicing over the "cure." As a result of the "miracle" Mrs. McPherson is said to have given him a branch pastorate as a testimonial to the religious faith that "cured" him.

Gilda Gray Sick, Waits For Divorce

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—Gilda Gray, famed master of the shimmy shake, who wants nothing more than a divorce petition in her Christmas stocking, may find that Santa Claus will delay his visit to her home until after the first of the year.

Gilda, it was announced today, was taken ill with a throat infection, which may delay proceedings in her divorce action against her second husband, Gil Boag.

The dancer, it was hoped, could shake off the infection in time to make a court appearance in the next few days. Gilda's secretary said she had been instructed by physicians to take all necessary precautions to ward off pneumonia.

William F. Shaughnessy, the dancer's attorney, said no action would be taken in the suit until she had recovered.

U. S. Will Be Bid To Reparations Session

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—The United States government will shortly—probably within 24 hours—be formally invited to appoint two American experts to participate in a meeting in Paris in an effort to bring about a settlement of the reparations problem, the United Press learned in an authoritative quarter tonight.

The invitation will be tendered by Sir Esmé Howard, British ambassador and dean of the diplomats here. He will extend it on behalf of the reparations commission and Germany, it was learned.

HEAVY BLASTS ROCK CENTER OF LONDON

In a manhole, that flames more than 50 feet high and tore up the street and sidewalk for a distance of nearly half a mile. The second explosion this afternoon in the same area started a fire in a five-story building which previously had been evacuated because of gas escaping after the morning blast. Gas from the mains hung in the air throughout the day.

When the first explosion broke through the street this morning, it buried one man from a manhole in which he was working, killed a horse and three wa-manhole cover on a nearby bus.

An inspection of the affected area tonight showed no further damage. Leaving holes many yards wide. Roads were twisted into big waves and huge slabs of pavement thrown up as though by an earthquake. People who passed through the area staggered away gasping for breath and several families, fleeing from their gas-filled homes, barely escaped alive.

One manhole was thrown nearly 75 feet in the air and crashed through the roof of a nearby house, knocking a hole through two floors before its descent was halted.

TRUCE SIGNED IN SENATE BATTLE

quipped in by Senator La Follette, Wisconsin Republican, who said it was only "postponing the evil day" and that the Senate might as well face the show-down now. Instead of two weeks hence.

The inevitable Pat Harrison, Mississippi Democrat, was on hand to twist the Republicans in their predicament.

Leaders Heekled
"Why," he asked, "do we hold a pact for the peace of the world and in the other explosives to blow up the world?"

He heekled Senator Hale, who has been trying to get action on his naval bill.

"It has been charged in some quarters," Harrison said, "that the administration regards the peace treaty as an empty gesture. I cannot believe this. I have more confidence in the administration than the senator from Maine (Hale). If we are to show the nations of the world that the treaty is offered in good faith, let us get behind it with unanimous approval. Let us help the administration make amends for its bad deportment in the past conduct of foreign affairs."

Treaty First
When Borah presented his proposed unanimous consent agreement he was questioned by senators as to whether he would favor the cruiser bill or the treaty receiving first attention. Borah told each questioner he would use every means to get the treaty up first.

King of Fish, who Wednesday assisted Norris in blocking the cruiser bill, declared just before the Borah truce was agreed to be "deplorable the senate was unable to make a magnificent gesture in the spirit of Christmas and send word to the world that the United States is for peace by adopting the treaty before Christmas."

Stated in technical terms, the Borah agreement today provided the treaty should be made the unfinished executive business and the cruiser bill the unfinished legislative business. When the senate is in legislative session the cruiser bill will have the right of way. When it is in executive session the treaty will have the right of way. By majority vote with no debate permitted, the senate can at any time vote to go into executive session, or return from executive to legislative session.

Mystery Girl Victor In Race Across Nation

distance of Salt Lake city when the elusive girl arrived here. Meeker had claimed the girl's parents asked him to induce her to return to her home.

Only one possibility did she refuse to comment about. She did not talk about her uncle's statement in New York that it seemed to be an endeavor to obtain publicity.

She might have come here because of a love affair, she might have sped away from New York because of a proposed marital match of which she did not approve, she might have thought her parents would have sent her to a sanitarium for her health and she would not have cared to have gone, she suggested to the scribes.

The predominant thought she gave the newspapermen was that she had just come here to visit friends and that Dr. Meeker would understand when she saw him.

Miss McConnell was accompanied by Mrs. C. M. Anderson, wife of Richard Joseph Spineich, Vincent of Suhor, John Salte and Joan Bray after the taxicab episode.

GIRL RELIVES LIFE IN FIRM

Nancy Carroll merely moved the calendar back three years to play the role of a young girl seeking fame and fortune on Broadway in "Manhattan Cocktail," the Paramount story of stage life in which she is co-featured with Richard Arlen, now at the California the-ater.

While attending high school, she and one of her sisters sought to gain a foothold on the ladder of theatrical fame with a sister act in an amateur night performance at a Tenth avenue combination motion picture and vaudeville theater.

Just before the amateur performance Nancy and her sister confessed they could not comply with the West side residence rule, that they were from the East side but they were allowed to compete anyway, and they won.

A year later, Miss Carroll obtained a place in the chorus of "The Passing Show of 1923" and remained with the company following an earnest parental debate on the subject. "Topics of 1923" was her next show. Hollywood stage production of "Chicago" was the little red headed, blue-eyed Irish girl's first real "break."

It brought her screen tests by various studios and eventually a secondary lead.

There was a long gap between this picture and Nancy's next. How much longer the little New Yorker would have stuck it out in Hollywood it is difficult to say, but the problem was solved permanently when Anne Nichols, author of the stage and screen success, "Ah, the Irish Rose," picked Nancy for the title role in the screen version of her play.

SHOOTING OF YOUTH HERE PROBED

Coroner Aubrey Wilson is investigating the death of Thomas Fleming, 17, of No. 4 Indian Rock, who was killed yesterday morning while duck hunting on the local inner harbor. Robert Fulton, 15, Fleming's companion, has been released by the Richmond police on a technical manslaughter charge, pending investigation of the death.

According to Fulton's story to the police, he and Fleming were hunting ducks in a rowboat. Fulton declared that he was loading an automatic shotgun when Fleming asked him to pass him the gun. As he was giving the gun to Fleming, it accidentally discharged and the charge entered Fleming's neck, severing the jugular vein. He was dead before he reached the shore.

Fulton rowed the boat ashore. He was met on the way by another party in a second boat who gave assistance. They were: J. Silva and William L. Greer, both of 500 San Pablo avenue and Herman Richard, 35 Lexington, El Cerrito.

Upon reaching the shore the party notified Fred Poinell, 372 South Thirty-seventh street, who called fire station No. 4 and the police. Inspector of Police George Bengley and Coroner Aubrey Wilson hurried to the waterfront. Fleming's body was taken to the Wilson and Krater chapel here and later removed to an Oakland undertaking parlor. Fulton was taken to the police station for questioning.

He was grief stricken and told police that he could not go home and face the parents of the Fleming boy. The boys had been neighbors and close friends for years, he said.

FORMER LOCAL GIRL WINS HONORS

Miss Evelyn Flint of Berkeley, former secretary of City Attorney Thomas M. Cardozo of Richmond, has been named a member of the staff of the state legislative bureau. This is the first time in the history of California that a woman has been appointed to the staff.

Miss Flint, who is 26 years of age, passed the state bar examination in San Francisco.

Notice of her appointment was received yesterday from Fred C. Vroom, chief of the bureau which advises legislators as to the legality of proposed measures.

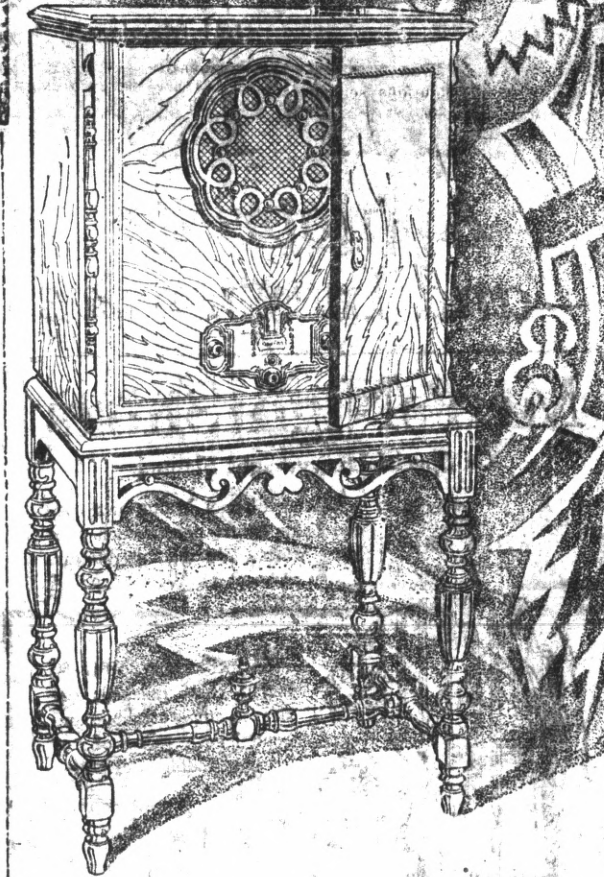

Miss Flint, who is 26 years of age, began her legal career as secretary to Joseph M. Thorne, San Francisco attorney, and under his guidance prepared herself for the state bar examinations, which she passed with honors in October.

Miss Flint assumed her duties in Sacramento yesterday. She has been assigned the task of advising senators and assemblymen on the proposed legislation affecting women and children of California.

ADIO AID TO MANY POLICE FORCES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(U.P.)—Police departments throughout the United States are finding in radio a new ally in detecting crime and apprehending criminals, records of the Federal Radio commission reveal.

Three of the largest police departments in the country now use their own shortwave stations and quickly transmit to flying sections and patrol wagons reports of robberies and descriptions of the criminals.

Within a few minutes after a hold-up has occurred in Detroit's downtown section, all details available are dispatched by that city's radio to various suburban stations. New York and Dallas police are also using radio in this way and Boston's fire department has a short wave set.

Pennsylvania System

But the Pennsylvania state police, with far-flung outposts throughout that state, have developed radio as a crime detector to its greatest extent. Five stations, at Harrisburg, West Reading, Greentown, Wyoming and Butler, are maintained by the Pennsylvania constabulary.

Police short-wave stations transmit their reports entirely in code so they may not be understood by anyone with a receiving set, but many regular broadcasting stations are co-operating also in this movement.

Station KGO, Oakland, Calif., broadcasts descriptions of criminals supplied by the San Francisco and Oakland police departments. A receiving set has been installed on the Carquinez bridge, north of Oakland, to listen in on these reports as lawbreakers sometimes speed for the bridge after a crime.

Short Wave Network Due

Amateur operators are also proving useful in relaying messages to various points telling of crimes. Police departments maintain contacts with amateurs in their districts and call on them in emergencies for "under cover" work. The amateurs are well organized and hold themselves in readiness for such service.

Radio engineers visualize a time in the near future when there will be a network of short wave police stations extending throughout the United States. Resolutions setting aside a band of short wave channels "to facilitate rapid transmission of information of value in detection of crime and pursuit of criminals" were approved by the International Radio-Telegraph convention which met here in 1927.

When the short wave channels assigned to the United States have been finally determined, the Federal Radio commission, it is expected, will allocate certain frequencies especially to this work.

STUDENT GIVES BLOOD TO SERVANT

MACON, Ga., Dec. 21.—(U.P.)—Fred Shaw, of Tifton, Ga., has given a pint of his blood to save the life of Lee Battle, negro servant of Mercer University. Battle has been confined to a Macon hospital for several weeks and recently was weakened from loss of blood following an operation.

Shaw is a sophomore in the College of Liberal Arts. When an appeal was made for some student to give his life fluid for the aged negro, Shaw was among the first to volunteer. His blood was tested in the hospital laboratory, and found suitable for the transfusion.

Asked why he made the sacrifice, Shaw said, "I did it from a sense of duty. I would give my blood to save anybody's life."

Lee Battle has been employed by the university as a dining hall attendant for 29 years, since he walked from Albany, Ga., to Macon, looking for a job.

It is a tradition at the old Baptist school here for Lee to make speeches and give his characteristic yell between the periods of athletic contests. His presence has been missed by the team and the students at football games this year. He has been in the hospital since the opening of school.

A general belief on the Mercer campus is that Lee knows every alumnus of the university who graduated since the negro has been employed here. He is called "Mercer's apostle of optimism" for his cheering spirit at football, basketball and baseball games; Lee has a "feeling in his legs" when Mercer is going to win.

The negro is reported as improving but there is little hope for him to leave the institution in the near future.

Indigent Burial Fund Of County Without Cash

MARTINEZ, Dec. 20.—That another appropriation must be made by the county supervisors for the indigent burial fund, was the warning issued today by A. N. Sallinger, county auditor.

According to Sullinger if the county is to continue to pay the cost of burial of indigent persons who die in the county, the appropriation must be made as the present fund is exhausted and one undertaker's bill is being held pending the appropriation.

WHO DARES!

Who dares to say, when I am here no more:
"Poor dear, how fortunate that she is free
From all the torments crowding at her door.
How happy and how peaceful she must be!"

I want them only thus to speak of me—
"She loved her life and left it with regret,
She had not half outworn its ecstasy,
She longed to love and laugh a little yet."

"She loved the sunshine and the smell of rain,
And every colorful and joyous thing—
She loved the freedom of the windswept plain
And all the rapturous glory of the Spring."

"And now she lies in darkness there below,
Rebelloously, her singing no wise done
Who dares to say that she was glad to go!
Her restless heart is longing for the sun."
—Fannie Livermore in Harper's Bazar.

WORK

If you are poor—work.
If you are rich—continue to work.
If you are burdened with seemingly unfair responsibilities—work.
If you are happy—keep right on working. Idleness gives room for doubts and fears.
If disappointments come—work.
If sorrow overwhelms you and loved ones seem not true—work.
When faith falters and reason fails—just work.
When dreams are shattered and hope seems dead—work.
Work as if your life were in peril. It really is. Whatever happens or matters—work.
Work faithfully—work with faith.
Work is the greatest material remedy available.
Work will cure both mental and physical afflictions.

FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS SURPRISED BY MY QUICK RECOVERY

San Jose, Cal.
Nov. 12, 1928.
To Whom It May Concern:
For some time past I suffered with nervous attacks similar to those of St. Vitus dance. My speech was so affected that I could not talk. I was completely unable to do my work. I was so nervous that I could not sleep. I was so tired that I could not get up in the morning. I was so weak that I could not walk. I was so ill that I was a burden to my friends and neighbors. I was so miserable that I was a burden to myself. I was so desperate that I was a burden to the world. I was so hopeless that I was a burden to God. I was so lost that I was a burden to the universe. I was so dead that I was a burden to the earth. I was so lost that I was a burden to the sky. I was so dead that I was a burden to the sun. I was so lost that I was a burden to the moon. I was so dead that I was a burden to the stars. I was so lost that I was a burden to the universe. I was so dead that I was a burden to the earth. I was so lost that I was a burden to the sky. CAPITOL STAFF UNCHANGED BY ELECTION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(U.P.)—Political fortunes, electoral returns, and administrative changes play only a meager role in the lives of a large number of White House employees who year after year continue in their faithful service.

These employees include a half-dozen who began their service as far back as the McKinley regime. Two entered the White House under President Harrison. Their loyalty to the chief executive, regardless of his party affiliation is unquestioned; the condence placed in them never broken. Both the executive staff and the servant body has a deep-rooted respect for this spirit of loyalty. A negro servant who has seen several first ladies come and go recently was questioned about the likes and dislikes of one of her White House mistresses.

"Can't say a word," she replied and added naively, "That's why I've been here so long."

Thorough Knowledge

Through usage and the experiences of five or more administrations, the older employees are equipped with a concise knowledge of both official and social routines at the White House and they are prepared to offer useful suggestions to a new chief executive and first lady.

J. H. Hoover, the White House's chief usher, and William Wilkins, one of the general housemen, are the two whose service antedates President McKinley.

Hoover is charged with the reception of persons visiting the White House, as well as the direction of the daily White House schedule. One minute he receives the suave ambassador of a European government; the next he directs delivery of flowers to the first lady's boudoir. The servants are under his experienced supervision, and he thus saves the mistress of the White House much of the general bother entailed in management of the large household.

In all, Hoover has under his direction more than 35 servants attached directly to the executive mansion. Of these, more than 20 have seen continuous service since the Roosevelt administration. With the exception of the kitchen staff all came to the White House before President Harding. Each first lady, it seems, has her individual preferences for her table, and she generally brings her own trusted servants to prepare her dinners as she likes them.

Seven members of the executive staff have served under six presidents, or back as far as McKinley. Rudolph Foster, assistant to the President's personal secretary, came to the White House in 1897. E. W. Smithers, telegraph operator, also began work under McKinley, as did I. R. T. Smith, C. E. Ingling, N. P. Webster, and C. J. Pusey of the office staff.

Owns Historic Key
Smithers owns one of the most historic of White House mementoes—the solid gold telegraph key with which President Taft opened the Alaska Yukon Pacific Exposition June 1, 1909. The key, mounted on a block of Alaskan marble, is surrounded by the first 22 gold nuggets taken from the Klondike by its discoverer, George W. Carmack, in August of 1896. The key has been used by four presidents in opening projects throughout the United States, and was presented by Taft to open the Panama Canal.

Patrick McKenna, known to diplomats, newspaper correspondents, politicians and statesmen the world over as the guardian of the door leading in the private executive office first took his post in 1903.

Richard Jervis, head of the executive secret service staff, also has been on duty since the early 1900's. He first was assigned to the White House in Roosevelt's administration, but special assignments allowed him little time at the executive mansion.

Besides guarding the lives of presidents since then, Jervis has acted as golf caddy for three—Taft, Wilson and Harding.

Often during summer months Jervis would accompany Wilson to the links as early as 4:30 a. m. As a rule, golf courses are not populated with caddies at 4:30 in the morning. That explains a large part of Jervis' caddyship.
